

OVERVIEW

Island Pacific Core Planning is part of the Island Pacific Planning suit.

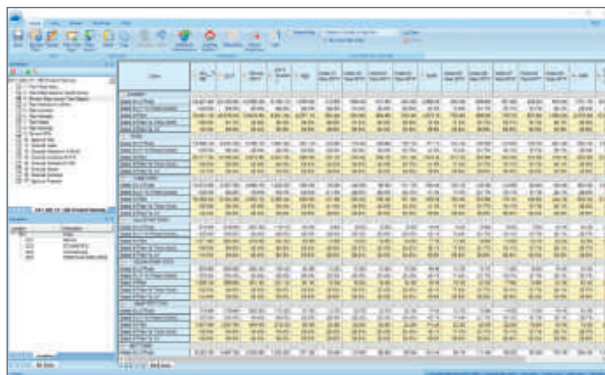

Core Planning provides the ability to carry out the Merchandise financial plan along with the Channel and store plan. Its Supports both pre-season and in-season planning along with full open to buy planning / WSSI. There is also the additional option of creating line plans for any key items within the business and a line manager allows the ability to use historical similar items or styles to create your new plans today.

Core Planning provides the tools to lay out key foundations for a retail business to plan their sales and how much inventory is needed to support those sales across time in retail value, units or cost. Seasonality can also be considered and or continuity versus fashion items.

Island Pacific Core Planning has the flexibility to allow retailers focus on what is important whilst sticking to the core basic principles of best practice retail planning. All wrapped up in a solution which has the data integrity to ensure that staff cannot override actual data. With the flexibility to allow the team to drill down and across categories and channels, which means everyone is looking at one version of the truth.

Providing information quickly so the team all have the information at their finger-tips to make considered decisions!
